The Carmel Pine Cone Cymbal

Louis Turango, Home On Leave, Saw Action At Coral Sea, Casa Blanca, Munda, Truk, Parau, Tarawa, Hollandia

By FRED BECHDOLT

Louis Turango, Gunner's Mate Second Class and Captain of a five inch gun mount, came back to Carmel on shore leave last week. He found the village greatly changed from what he left when he enlisted in the Navy more than three years ago; and those of us, who knew him in the old days, as a boy, saw a veteran of more than twenty engagements.

He was one of several young fellows who went away during the two years before Pearl Harbor. They were apparently a care free lot and in those days, when older men were doing a great deal of talking, none of them were sounding off concerning the affairs of nations. They departed quietly to join up with the armed forces at a time when men who are still called statesmen were telling the world that America had no part in this World War: Red Lane, Gordon Bain, Billy Junkins, Louis Holtzauer, Caryle Lewis, and half a dozen others who used to play baseball on Sunset School grounds and, on occasion, gather at the two pine trees near Seventh and Junipero—the "Madison Square Garden" where school boys adjusted disagreements with bare fists. Some of them, we already know, will not come back.

The brief years which intervened have been crammed with large events. It fell to the lot of Louis Turango to take part in more than a few of them. The light cruiser on which he was doing duty as a seaman first class was coming into the channel on that Sunday morning when hell broke loose at Pearl Harbor. During the months that followed while the Allied fleets were making a defensive fight against terrible odds, his ship was under air attack a number of times and took part in the bloody Coral Sea engagement.

Then he was transferred to a new battle wagon in the Atlantic. He was at his battle station for the twelve hours at Casa Blanca while the ship was under fire from shore batteries, from the Jean Bart and two cruisers, from submarines and aircraft, with the admiral commanding the operation from her flying bridge.

Later the battleship vanished completely from public notice. And during the seventeen months which followed the only ports her crew saw were lonely little islands in the southwestern Pacific. They were in enemy waters most of the time, constantly alerted and at their battle stations night and day. Among more than twenty actions in which they were subjected to fire from shore batteries and aircraft and submarines, the most important were the Munda campaign, the Gilbert Islands, and the Marshalls, Truk, Palau, Tarawa, and Hollandia.

Louis Turango gained his promotions by the hard test of action: he climbed to Gunners Mate Sec-

JUNE 14th IS FLAG DAY

The citizens of Carmel will proudly display their flags this year again to honor our own boys who have paid the supreme price in this war and for all past wars. It will be a symbol of prayer to hold faith during our present momentous struggle for righteousness to all mankind. It will be our privilege to preserve it by purchasing War Bonds on this day to show our appreciation to all who are speeding up the final day of Victory.

—P. A. McCREERY, Mayor.

Gene Ricketts Granted Permit To Build Dairy

A building permit to construct a dairy and milk processing plant on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth was granted Jean Ricketts, proprietor of McDonald's Dairy, at the city council meeting Wednesday night. Blueprints submitted to the city council for consideration were for a $12,000 one story building of concrete with mission tile roofing. There is to be a fountain and booths for breakfast and sandwich lunches in the forward part of the building, the entrance of which is to be made attractive by plantings of shrubbery. The building is to be completed early in August.

Communications to the council consisted in a letter from Homer R. Levinson asking that the members take action in organizing a volunteer life saving crew and install life saving equipment on the beach. Commissioner of Health and Safety Fred Godwin said that a meeting will be called soon to discuss the feasibility of the plan.

Helen Baldwin, secretary of the Carmel Woman's Club, in a letter to the council, recommended that speed limit signs be put at the entrances to the town, and that the commanding officers at the posts be asked to restrain army truck drivers from traveling through the streets at a dangerous speed. Police Commissioner Allen Knight said that the matter of signing was under the jurisdiction of the county but that action had been taken in the matter of military personnel breaking traffic regulations and that the police department had been instructed to warn them by issuing courtesy cards.

A letter from Miss Katherine A. Beasley requesting city support for an employment agency that would furnish domestic and restaurant help was read and City Clerk Peter Mawdsley was instructed to notify Miss Beasley that such an

Senior Speakers Talk on Freedom At Graduation

Three well delivered speeches on ambitious themes were presented by the seniors at their Graduation Exercises last night at Sunset School.

Arnold Pilling, first speaker, in discussing his subject, social freedom said: "To me, social freedom means the right of every individual to enjoy equal advantages and liberties. We all realize

Poetry Added To Boxing At Fifth War Bond Rally

A characteristic Carmel touch has been added to the program for the V Bond Bouts and Rally to be held in the Forest Theatre Monday evening, June 12. Manager Ken Carleton arranging to combine poetry with boxing on this history making occasion, has asked Don Blanding to read excerpts from his, PILOT BAILS OUT, the little book of verse that has become a favorite of service men here and overseas. The patriotic nature of the verses will be especially appropriate to precede the bond-buying auction of merchandise contributed by Carmel businessmen to be conducted by a former radio star now in uniform, Sgt. Bill Lewis, Fort Ord (Little Johnny Little.)

The card is made up of seven events; Rusty Payne, at 178 lbs., from Camp McQuaide, light heavy-

51 To Graduate From Sunset This Afternoon

Seventh Grade graduation exercises are to be held at Sunset School auditorium this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, Patricia Timbers, Laurel Dell Hildebrand, Earl White, Elton Clark, Charles Williams and Mary Louise Lodmell the student speakers.

The elementary school orchestra and the seventh grade chorus will provide the music.

there are members of our citizenry who are not free from social discrimination, yet we must remember that America has made great advancement along these lines in the last hundred years. Advancement means there is hope for complete social freedom." He pointed out that the leader in establishing social freedom is the government which through the Thirteenth Amendment granted freedom to the negro slaves; the Fourteenth Amendment gave them the vote, and the Fifteenth guaranteed them equal rights with the whites. The latest advance is the executive order outlawing race discrimination in war plants.

The churches, labor unions and management in many cases have also helped in the struggle for race equality, but the advancement has been slow.

"It is for us, the coming generation to learn how to pull together to banish discrimination and to develop unity. Through the correct usage of American intelligence we may, with the passage of time, be able to give the Negro the vote he has been denied in the

"There Should Be No Let Up At Home" Brig. Gen. D. W. Hand

The Pine Cone Cymbal asked Brig. Gen. D. W. Hand, one of Carmel's best informed retired Army officers, who was in service in France during World War I, for his reaction to the announcement that American and British Forces had invaded the coast of Normandy. He was gracious enough to furnish us with the following statement:

"The allies were most fortunate in their landing on the French Coast. It was due to fine planning and co-ordination of the Military and Naval forces. We must expect before long that the Germans will counter attack with heavy forces. Before this occurs, it is sincerely hoped that the weather will permit the landing of heavy reinforcements and material together with the tremendous amount of ammunition, gasoline and supplies of all nature necessary in the campaign.

"We will undoubtedly defeat the Nazis, but the people at home must not be over optimistic for a quick victory and there should be no let up in the efforts of every man, woman and child in the nation to back up our forces afloat and ashore."

No Shouting Now—

There was no wild rejoicing over the invasion news in Carmel. People listened to the news broadcasts, the children in the schools, the adults at home; a good many went to church, and those with jobs went quietly about their work. A small town is too closely knit to allow its people to root over a battle as they would over a football game. Those who do not have sons, brothers, husbands or sweethearts in the engagement know that their neighbors and friends have, and they share with them the tension and suspense of waiting. But if there was no cheering, nor clustering on street corners of arm-chair strategists, neither was there an attitude of gloom. The people felt that matters so far had gone well for their men, who are equipped and supplied with the best that a great industrial nation can produce, and that there is every reason to hope for victory. And many are praying this week that the victory will be soon.

The churches have been crowded. On invasion morning the mission was filled for two early masses and was filled again in the evening for rosary and benediction, and throughout the invasion period there will be two masses instead of one, at seven and at eight every morning. There will also be daily evening services dedicated to Our Lady of Victory. The Church of the Wayfarer and All Saints' were continually visited during the day by people coming to find renewed courage in prayer. Special services are planned at both places of worship for next Sunday. One minister told us that he is preparing to remind his people that the enemy, too, have wives and children who will have to face sorrow and loss, and to include them in their prayers. If this attitude of Christian sympathy and understanding could become universal, chances would be stronger for lasting peace.

Meanwhile, those who wait at home can support their men in the

WAC Fetter Prefers Life Of A Private

Private Ellen C. Fetter who has replaced Sgt. Warda Lyons at the U. S. Army WAC Recruiting station in Monterey said last week:

"My six months as a buck private in the WAC have been among the happiest, most broadening, adventuresome of my life. As a private I have had the privilege of knowing intimately all America. In traveling all over the country I have been received in many civilian homes and have made friends among all types of people. The private leads a carefree life, despite regimentation. She has no responsibilities, no economic worries and no grueling decisions to make. If invited to go to officers' school it is the WAC's duty to do so, but I doubt if I would enjoy it as much as my present status."

Private Fetter, who holds a master's degree from Columbia School of Comparative Literature, started teaching in college in 1926. She has traveled extensively in Europe and speaks three languages.

Admission to the bouts is contingent upon the purchase of war bonds; $1000 bond entitling the buyer to a seat in the Golden Row which is limited to twenty-four seats. All other seats are unreserved though they have been blocked off so that the more desirable will go the purchasers of the higher denomination bonds.

During the past week a pleasant practice has developed of bond purchasers, who will not be able to attend the bouts themselves, obtaining tickets for wounded war veterans. Those desiring to extend this courtesy to the service men may do so by leaving their Boxing Bout Tickets with Ken Carleton or the bond salesman and saleswomen.

Navy Defense Dogs To Be Feature Of Del Monte Show

Defense Dogs going through their paces will be one of the attractions at the Del Monte Kennel Club Dog Show to be held on the Practice Field of the Pebble Beach Gold Links Sunday June 25, proceeds of which will be donated to the Red Cross.

The Defense Dogs, sent down by the Navy from Mare Island with their trainers, will enter the obedience classes and will also put on an exhibition.

Many local dogs will also be entered in the various classes and there will be a large entry from the southern part of the state.

Judging, which will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, will continue until sun-down with a break for sandwich luncheon served on the grounds.

Entries close June 15, blanks for which can be obtained from Del Monte Kennels in Monterey and Lemon's Pet Shop in Carmel.

Now he is back in Carmel looking for familiar faces and the only ones he finds are old ones, for the young ones are scattered all over the globe. He will go to advanced gunnery school at San Diego in a few days and after that—he hopes—he will return to a battle wagon.

And we who must stay at home are wishing him good luck.

Don Blanding Guest Speaker At Lions Meeting Tuesday

Don Blanding, as guest speaker at the Lions Club dinner meeting Tuesday night, gave an especially appropriate talk, as the occasion was D Day, quoting from his book, Pilot Bails Out.

During business meeting officers were elected: Fred Decker, president; Robert O'Brien, first vice president; Fred Goss, second vice president; Eben Whittlesey, Henry Overin, George Knapp, Clifford Cook, directors; Carl Bensberg, Lion Tamer; Andrew Wiemann, Tail Twister.

Plans were made for a picnic for the cub packs which are sponsored by the organization to take place July 1, at Indian Village. It was voted to buy four $50 War Bonds and tickets to the V Bond Boxing Bout, the tickets to be distributed to four service men through a drawing at the Carmel U. S. O. Saturday night.

Guests at the meeting were L. F. Stiney of Stockton, Frank Heffling, and Robert Weaver.

The only War Bond you'll ever regret is the one you didn't buy!

DIENELTS LOSE APPEAL

Bert and Margaret Dienelt lost their appeal Wednesday to have set aside the order of the County Zoning Commission which prohibited their finishing an extension on their dining room at the Mission Ranch Club.

In handing down his decision, Judge H. G. Jorgensen said that "one permit to encroach on the zoning ordinance, if granted, is only a precedent to the second, and then the commission finds itself helpless."

The Mission Ranch Club is non-confronting business in a restricted residential area.

"Little By Little" Pre-Flight Exhibit Shows William Silva's Progress

William P. Silva's "Pre-Flight" exhibit, a chronologically arranged showing of drawings, water colors and oils produced between the years 1875 and 1911, and marking the 30th anniversary of his Carmelita Gallery on San Antonio street, closed on Wednesday after a highly successful week's run.

The large number of Carmel residents who thronged the gallery daily between three and five found the exhibit of unusual interest both artistically and historically. They were diverted, too, by the humorous signs with which the artist labeled the different periods of his work. At 84 William Silva has lost none of his appealing capacity to poke sly fun at the world, and himself.

Among what he calls his First Crude Endeavors appears a photographic reproduction of a life-size crayon drawing of his father, which was made in 1875 and earned for the youthful artist his first newspaper plug. Here also are untutored drawings from models and memory to be followed soon by pencil sketches of his early surroundings in Savannah and later at the University of Virginia, where he started out to be a mining engineer. Not a picket or shrub is missing from the detailed drawing of his professor's house made by student Silva. Most ingratiating number among these early exhibits is one made in 1881, showing a comic quartet composed of William Silva, his sweetheart, a cousin and a friend, all attired in the modish bathing suits of the period.

Next followed samples of the work Mr. Silva produced while a member of the Chattanooga Sketch club, consisting of pen and pencil drawings and washes. "And now we try color!" he points out, exhibiting the record of early study with Arthur Dow in Ipswich, and the results of summer vacations from business spent in Gloucester and elsewhere in New England. Here also are the scenes around his home on the old battlefield below Lookout Mountain, the bridge and woods near Chattanooga, and glimpses of its picturesque streets. "A little bit by degrees like the cat ate the fish hook," as Mr. Silva quotes from the sayings of his old negro gardener, he progressed to oils, painting nights, holidays, and early mornings, often in the studio he built atop his Chattanooga store, such subjects as Lookout in spring and autumn, a self portrait, and the further records of New England summers.

"And here farewell to business!" he exclaims, marking the day when he sold his store and embarked in 1906 with Mrs. Silva for Europe and "Art with an A." In this section hang canvasses descriptive of Bruges, Longpre, the Thames and the country surrounding the Silva studio at Etaples, and one of the loveliest in this group is the portrait of an Old Woman of Etaples.

In the guessing game conducted during the week, in which each visitor was privileged to guess the subjects, historical and legendary, depicted by 14 sketches Mr. Silva made while he was a student at the Julian Academy in Paris, in accord with the custom of competing for places at easels, two contestants tied for first place, with eleven correct titles: Col. W. R. Henry and Mrs. Gwendolyn McHarry. Each will receive as prize a small Silva painting. Mr. Silva was assisted in conducting the contest by George Marion.

Dr. F. Hiebel Will Lecture On Steiner Method Of Teaching

With the problem of education a burning subject, the announcement of a lecture, "A glimpse of the Teaching in a Rudolf Steiner School" is timely. Dr. Frederick Hiebel will give this lecture at 2:30 on June 20 at the home of Miss Elsa Blackman (second house south of Ocean on the upper side of Carmelo.) Note books of the boys and girls of the Rudolf Steiner School on East 91st street, New York, with which Dr. Hiebel is connected will be on display. The Rudolph Steiner Reading Group, sponsoring Dr. Hiebel's visit, hopes that many mothers and educators will avail themselves of this opportunity of insight into these little known and vital methods of teaching. It may be of interest to Carmelites that Madame Tevis, a sister of Paul Dougherty, and the daughter of Percy McKaye, our veteran poet are also connected with this New York School.

A small admission charge will be asked.

Carmel Residents To Attend Mills' Annual Institute

Among the Carmel residents who are to attend the Tenth Annual Session of the Institute of International Relations at Mills College June 18 to 28 are Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, Mrs. Howard Elton Clark and Mrs. Willis G. White.

As is the custom there will be a series of evening lectures by outstanding authorities on such subjects as Strategy for a Free World, Race in the Present World Crisis, Moral Imperatives for World Order, Stalin at the Peace Table, etc.

A special conference will also be held Saturday, June 24, at the Palace Hotel on the topic: Britain, Europe and the United States.

Another Typhoid Case Reported in Oak Grove

The report of another case of typhoid occurring in the Oak Grove area brings the total of cases for Monterey County to 24, according to Dr. Kenneth Sheriff, Monterey County Health Officer. The onset of this last case was the 20th of May and it is reasonably believed that the source of this infection was similar to the other cases occurring during this period, namely contaminated unpasteurized cheese, the health officer further stated. Further evidence that the incriminating product which was the source of these infections is off the market is seen the fact that the peak of the outbreak is past and the reporting of cases is tapering off.

Country Must Face Post War Economic Problem Says Speaker

The depression of 1929-30 shook very deeply the foundations of United States economy, said Dr. Ewald T. Grether, Professor of Economics and Business Administration of the University of California, speaking at the adult forum in Sunset School Library last week Tuesday evening. An expert who is frequently called to Washington for consultation by the government, Dr. Grether had as his topic, "Relationship between Government and Industry in the Post-war World." The depression, he said, undermined the people's sense of security and brought forward ideas unknown in the decades of individualism and freedom in business. There is reason for worry and the country must face the problem of providing adequate employment and a reasonable security for its citizens.

The speaker listed five types of relation between government and business in this country: 1—Licensing, chartering, supervising receiverships, insolvency, etc.; 2—Facilitating relations—providing a favorable "climate" for business in general legal provisions, as copyrights, trademarks, etc., or granting special privileges, protective tariffs, and the like; 3—In the Sherman Act of 1890 to protect competition by outlawing monopolies; 4—Regulating the trend of competition, e. g. by preventing unfair cutting of prices, and rebates; 5—Definite influence upon economic conditions, as during the depression, to enable business to "come back." In this period all business sought government aid, and industry was allowed to organize combinations contrary to the Sherman Act, but with government representation.

The problem now is how government can relinquish this power after the war, without detriment to the people. The optimistic view is that control may be handed over to business, which will carry on for the benefit of all. The pessimistic view point is that the economic system is running down, that there is an inherent tendency for a gap between income and need, and government must always step in and supervise. Dr. Grether believes there is a middle ground, where government aids without stifling initiative and private enterprise. Government, labor, and business must work together if the security which the public is beginning to demand is to be attained. The Government can be responsible for the working of our economy without in any way pushing us into a collectivist society.

The Baruch report on this problem of return of business to a peacetime basis said to Congress, "Listen to pressure groups, but work in the common interest." It is normal for groups to go to Congress to ask for the passage of measures to their interest; it is the duty of Congress to balance all these interests into laws that are fair for all. The public, the consumer must keep his needs before Congress, along with those of more vociferous minority groups.—L.L.T.

Private funeral services were held on Wednesday morning at Paul's Mortuary in Pacific Grove for Gerald Wrightson, resident of Carmel for over twenty years, who died on the morning of June 5, at the age of 80 years.

A native of England, and a graduate of Oxford University, Mr.

Wrightson came to this country many years ago, participating in the Alaskan gold rush and later pursuing his career as a mining man at the Bully Hill Mine in California. For a time, also, he was in the theatrical agency business.

For several years after coming to Carmel he was associated with

Allen Knight, later serving as caretaker of the Monte Verde Apartments. His last surviving relative, a sister, who made her home in England, died two months ago.

AWVS Undertake To Place Students In Summer Employment

From baby care to farm work for the girls, from mowing lawns to work in the San Francisco shipyards for the boys.

That's the gamut of jobs that students of Carmel High School are seeking for the summer.

In previous years student employment has been handled thru the school offices. Because of plans made by faculty members that will take them from Carmel soon after the close of school the AWVS have been called upon.

Once again the members of AWVS have responded to the call, and student employment will be handled through the Carmel offices in Pine Inn building.

Mrs. Helen Grandy of AWVS will be in charge of jobs for students. It is her plan to canvass peninsula employers, and to fit youths of both sexes into their needed niches. Already more than 30 students have filed applications, and Mrs. Grandy plans to begin her active work of finding jobs for them.

One girl student on her application gave as preferences "tending babies, or farm work." One boy wanted "to mow lawns or work in San Francisco shipyards." Another "anything, just so it's off the Peninsula."

"I am not quite sure just what we will do about all of them," said Mrs. Grandy, with a smile. "But we will do our very best to please both the applicants and their employers."

Alison Stilwell To Give Benefit Talk On July 2

Life in Peiping will be the subject of a talk to be given by Miss Alison Stilwell at the Sunset Auditorium on Sunday, July 2nd, at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Stilwell, a nationally known authority on Chinese art, needs no introduction to Carmel audiences. She has volunteered her services on this occasion to assist in raising funds to carry on the work of the Fort Ord chapter of the Daughters of the United States Army, an organization of which she is a member.

The price of the tickets is $1.00. They will be on sale this week at the Service Wives' Center in Pine Inn.

RATION POINTS

Here are good points to remember. Red stamps U8, V8 and W8 in Ration Book Four have just been validated. No other red stamps will become good until July 2. # INVASION

THE EMBLEM OF INVASION

THIS IS THE NEW SHOULDER-SLEEVE EMBLEM FOR THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH ENLISTED MEN AND OFFICERS ATTACHED TO GENERAL EISENHOWER'S INVASION STAFF.

WHAT THE EMBLEM SIGNIFIES

Upon a field of heraldic sable (black), representing the blackness of Nazi oppression, is shown the sword of liberation in the form of a crusader's sword. Red flames arising from the hilt and leaping up the blade represent avenging justice by which the enemy power will be broken. Above the sword is a rainbow containing all of the colors of which the national flags of the Allies are composed; the rainbow is emblematic of hope.

The heraldic chief of azure blue above the rainbow is emblematic of a state of peace and tranquility, which restoration, to the enslaved people, is the objective of the United Nations.

Meredith, Post Commander of the Presidio, was graduated at the Pacos Army Air Field, Texas, receiving his commission as a second lieutenant in the Air Corps.

As a surprise to his son, Col. Meredith flew to Pacos, where he delivered the principal address at the graduation ceremonies, and pinned the coveted wings on the tunic of young Second Lieutenant Meredith.

A MEMORIAL DAY OF OUR OWN

Carmel was able to celebrate Memorial Day with greater sincerity and more genuine feeling this year than ever before because the people could participate in the ceremony rather than stand passively by as spectators. The program, arranged by Ernest Morehouse, Commander of the American Legion, was made up entirely of Carmel residents performing their parts in the exercises with simplicity and dignity.

Never has Devendorf Plaza presented a more effective scene than when on Tuesday afternoon, against the backdrop of foliage glistening in the sunlight, the uniformed contingents assembled on the lawn before the memorial stone, the Cadets and Boys Scouts smartly at attention, the women of the Red Cross and the Grey Ladies coiffured in their graceful veils, the AWVS, the Girl Scouts, the Junior AWVS and the Junior Home Nursing Corps, trim in their uniforms, and the spectators, men, women and youngsters grouped about informally, their faces quiet with thought and gentle with sympathy for those whose hearts are closely bound to the names inscribed on the memorial stone.

The exercises opened with the entrance of the Cadet Corps in command of Captain Everett May, through a lane kept open by the Boy Scouts, to take their place with their commandant, J. W. Getsinger. Miss Helen Heavy, representing the Red Cross, and Mrs. P. A. Mix, the AWVS, lowered the flag while bugler Jim Heisinger sounded taps. Girl Scouts Delora Sharp and Barba Templin, stepping forward, placed a memorial wreath at the base of the stone and rejoined their group which was under the direction of Mrs. E. G. Fletcher. Following a prayer by Rev. Carel Hulsewe, rector of All Saints' Church, Anne Barrows' mellow contralto, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Stuart Haldorn, rose in the beautiful song, God's Highway.

Ernest Morehouse, Commander of the American Legion, delivered a stirring talk reminding his fellow townsmen of their responsibilities as civilians during war time. Their duty is to inform themselves on political and economic problems so that they can vote intelligently, he said. It is also their duty to submit cheerfully to the restrictions and minor privations that war demands on the home front, and to support to the full extent of their ability the financial burden of the war.

Dr. James E. Crowther of the Church of the Wayfarer spoke of the values that American people have always held sacred and have, when need be, fought for, and pointed out that it is for these values that our men are again going into battle.

Mayor P. A. McCreery thanked the citizens for their participation in the ceremonies, for their co-operation in the war activities here in Carmel and urged their continued effort.

The exercises closed with benediction by Father Michael O'Connell, and community singing of the National Anthem led by Anne Barrows.

The crowd broke up, moving in groups of two and three across the sunny lawn, neighbors and friends quietly exchanging greetings, as they returned to the work-a-day world, the richer in memory of Carmel's men who have given their lives for their country:

WHERE IS THE LAD . . . ? (A Mountain Mother Speaks)

*Under the leaves that spread gold on the autumn,
 Under their dark mould the white trillium stirs:
 There where the grouse picks his way to the hill-spring,
 Deer before dawning and wind-song of firs.
 Up from the sea come the trout to their meadow,
 The creek, rushing down, calls again to the sea;
 Forest . . . and forest, and noon-blue horizon . . .
 Only the eagle, high-soaring, and me.
 Where is the lad who cleared trail in the springtime?
 Gone is his echo that wakened the glen.
 Where is the whistler—his dog for companion?
 Lost in this maelstrom of war-harrassed men!
 Where is the lad whose clear call to the horses
 Rang over woodland and small stream in spate?
 Where is the lad who drove cows to high pasture? . . .
 Jousting at sandbags—and learning to hate!
 Over the meadow the mallards, low-winged:
 Sunlight on green and a bird's nearby tune.
 Given their wings, I might fly to the Mountain,
 Sighting the sea . . . and the grey, lonely dune!
 There where the alders splash paint on the hillside:
 Blue-green of spruce and the green-gold of pine;
 There where the south-fork renews its far sighing:
 Wind-song—and hate-song!—and heart's cry are mine! . . .
 Trillium and fawn and the doe in the dawning:
 Lambing and ploughing—new April begun . . .
 Nooning and twilight—and pasture bars, waiting . . .
 But where are you, Soldier? . . . O, where are you, Son?*

—BLANCHE DEGOOD LOFTON

MAGIC FOR A BRIDE

*The roses on my kitchen curtains were Alive with sunlight, and the birds had song
 Within their gay chintz throats; the kettle long
 Upon the stove, hummed with the kitten's purr.
 A shining yellow bowl, the rhythmic stir
 And plash within a pool of fluff; a throng
 Of fragrant potions, and with magic strong
 For this joy-day, I was a sorcerer!*

*I made a fairy castle for the bride,
 A girl's white dream for her remembering—
 The land mark where her little path that came
 From childhood lost itself; now on the wide
 Warm road of love, she smiles and twists her ring,
 Then cuts the cake, and speaks her husband's name.*

—MONICA TYLER BROWN

AWARE

*Let us listen, let us hear
 The spider marching on his web,
 The leaf that's growing,
 Let us hear
 The candle burning on its thread.
 And if by chance I feel your heart
 Beneath each gentle whispered thing
 It only serves to show you how Intently I am listening.*

SERVICE WIVES' CENTER REPORT

By GRACIE CRAFT

One of the busiest places in Carmel is the recently organized Service Wives' Center which is maintained daily from 10 to 5 o'clock at the AWVS offices in the Pine Inn. Here, families of both officers and enlisted men may come for general information and present personal problems, and an attempt is made to help them directly or refer them to the proper source for advice.

The Center opened March 27 and data compiled through June 3 reveals that 825 calls have been handled at the office. This is a daily average of more than 14 in the 56 days' operation. One-hundred and sixty-eight families have registered at the Center, bringing the roster up to 750 names. Since there is no Travelers' Aid agency in Carmel, all Service families are urged to place their names on the roster so they may be located readily by relatives and friends and in emergencies. Registrations may either be made in person at the office or by calling the Center at 1051. Families of retired service men and widows of service personnel are especially urged to register by Mrs. James F. Collins, who has charge of the roster.

Temporary rooms have been found for 130 persons, and 119 requests for houses or apartments to rent have been received.

General information on a variety of subjects has been given to 165 service families. This includes locations of hotels, restaurants, shops, churches, etc., in Carmel; train and bus reservations and schedules; amusement and recreation facilities and even complete plans for a wedding. Forty-eight sitters have been employed through the Center and 24 other jobs have been filled. Thirty-six available jobs have been listed with the Center and 44 requests for employment have been made. These cases are referred to the Service Wives' Counselor's Bureau in Monterey which is one of the projects of the AWVS and Carmel Service Wives.

Thirty-three notices have been posted on the bulletin board, listing such things as articles to buy or sell, rides or riders to Fort Ord and occasionally to widely scattered parts of the country, and many other miscellaneous subjects.

Thirty women have come in to the office and offered to do a variety of volunteer work. While the requests for 'legal aid' have been small, this is one of the most important phases of the work. Several cases have been referred to the Red Cross and military channels for proper procedure on problems relating to service families, as when casualty messages come, allotments require adjustment, etc.

Illustrating the need for a central clearing office where all the various problems may be coordinated is this recent occurrence with its three-fold results. A new business house called for someone to do an emergency sewing job, a soldier called for an inexpensive room and a service wife wanted a job. The desk volunteer phoned the women who wanted work and later she dropped in at the office to report she had taken the job. Overhearing the discussion on the soldier's room, she offered to rent one in her home at the desired rental. Thus all three parties were helped by the Center.

To raise money for office expenses and to give more publicity to the Center, a most successful Fashion Show Tea was held on May 26. One-hundred and seventy-five people crowded the Patio of the Pine Inn to capacity and twice the number of tickets could have been sold, had there been room. Everything, including the facilities of the Pine Inn, was donated and shops of Carmel cooperated most generously. Volunteers served and prepared the tea and sandwiches.

Responsible for the amazing success and rapid expansion of the project are Mrs. A. V. (Continued on Page 12)

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Our Puppy

We have a little puppy with freckles on his nose. He looks very cute with them. He is Rusty brown. We have a kitten too. They play together a lot, the kitten has orange and white stripes.

—Jolle van Buren, Grade 3.

Jay Family

One day I went to get some wood. I heard a little noise. I looked around and nothing happened. I set off for some more wood. I heard the little noise again and this time I looked way up. In the nearby tree was a little bird. It was a mother bird and I saw the little birds near her. They were Blue Jays and the mother screeched at me. I said, "Mother Blue Jay I won't hurt you!" But she kept on screaming.

Soon Papa Blue Jay came and I ran! Papa Blue Jay was after me! I ran into the house and looked out the window. The birds seemed to be laughing at me! I always went out the front door after that!

—Nancy Miller, Grade 5.

My Dog and I Take a Walk

One day when I was about three years old, I decided to follow my dog and see where she went each afternoon. I followed her along a road, and pretty soon she decided to go under a barbed wire fence. I couldn't get under it so I started to cry. People stopped and tried to help me but Ronny, the dog, wouldn't let them get near me. Finally my mother's ice man came along and Ronny wouldn't let him get near me, so he told my mother. My mother came to my rescue.

—Suzanne Smith, Grade 5.

A Wonderful Party

Last Friday night from 6:00 to 8:30 p. m. I went to Jeanine Marshall's beach party. At least it was intended to be a beach party, but it rained, so we all went to Jeanine's house. It stopped raining when we finished our supper, so we went outside to play. There were 15 boys and 15 girls. Jeanine's father came home a little later and he showed us how to play a new game called, "Go to Court," it was fun.

By the way, I lost a tooth at the party, but it was fun!

—Vera Williamson, Grade 5.

Sunshine At Last!

Sunday, my aunt and uncle and I went to the beach. I was so hot that it seemed to be just like Santa Cruz to me.

We took both of our dogs in the water with us. My uncle carried the big dog, and I carried the little one. The two dogs are named Fella and Susan. I put Susan in the water and she started to swim with us. Then my uncle put Fella in the water too, but he just started to cry and ran back upon the beach. He was just a fraidy-cat dog!—Dorothy Waltrys, Grade 5.

School Closes!

Today school closes for the summer. Then we can play or work when we want. We will come back to school on September 11th. I may go up the Carmel Valley to work or I may earn money by mowing lawns.—Bill Daniels, Gr. 5

Mr. Williams' Spoke

Mr. Williams came to talk to the third grade. He told us about the birds in Carmel. While he was here, we heard some birds singing outside. He told us why he is banding the black birds. He brought two baby sparrow hawks. One is named Lassie and one is Boogy.

—Nancy Steffanoff, Grade 3.

Bundles Announce White Elephant Party To Be Held June 24th

Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain hope that their many friends in Carmel and on the Peninsula will reserve the afternoon of Saturday, June 24th and come to the Bundles' next entertainment. It will be held at the Girl Scouts' House, which is so conveniently near the Post Office and the shops. Bundles announce this date so early because they want to give their friends plenty of time to look in their attics and closets to find an attractive and/or useful "White Elephant." For a "White Elephant" is the only charge for admission to the party. (For Army wives living in furnished houses, some article of wearing apparel or 50 cents will be accepted in lieu of a "White Elephant").

Rarely can the gift of an unwanted possession have promised so large a return. For those who like bridge or other card games, there will be play from 2 to 4 p. m. After that there will be a delicious tea for everyone, followed by an entertainment, which will be announced next week. Also there will be the announcement of the winners of the four beautiful pictures given to Bundles by the distinguished artist, now living in Monterey, Porter Woodruffe. And the "White Elephants" will be on exhibition. They will be sold later for the benefit of Bundles' work at their Thrift Shop on Dolores St. If any strangers in Carmel do not know of the work done by Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain, they can learn all details by calling at the Thrift Shop.

—Harriet Roberts.

WORD FROM RHYS WILLIAMS

Rhys Williams, Carmelite and author of The Russians, in a letter to a friend in Carmel last week said that he is now living in Chappaqua "an Eastern edition of Carmel with its purling brooks and surrounding hills covered with pink and white dogwood, lilacs and bright red maples—some thir-

Nicholas Needlefoot, King of Felines, Comes To Town

Nicholas Needlefoot, with story and pictures by Phil Nesbitt, and designed for children from the age of four up, made its appearance this week at the Village Book store and at Herbert Heron's shop in the Seven Arts Court.

This little volume, with its attractive format, has been published by the Wilcox and Follett Company of Chicago, who predict that Nicholas Needlefoot, graduating here from a fraidy-cat into the King of Felines by means of an exciting encounter with the ferocious Yellow Cat, will add one more to the animal characters beloved by children.

Full page illustrations in two colors, drawn with the delightful whimsy characteristic of the author, enliven the suspenseful text, which lends itself admirably to reading aloud with all the varied inflections demanded by a youthful audience.

This is Phil Nesbitt's second children's book, succeeding Trum Peter's Tea Party, which has enjoyed a wide popularity. A third book, Trumpey, is now being readied for publication.

Mr. Nesbitt will sign copies of this first edition if indicated by the purchaser.

Abie's Irish Rose Plays In Salinas Thursday, June 15

Anne Nichols' fabulous "Abie's Irish Rose" which comes to Salinas Union High School auditorium, June 15, for one night only under Ware-Hazelton circuit, has enjoyed extended runs wherever presented since its revival last May.

The Hebrew and the Hibernian friendly enemies fence with rapiers that have been dipped in good humor instead of vitriol. The tolerant spirit it emphasizes, while in no sense a preachment, strikes the popular fancy today as it did way back in the early twenties and romance and comedy are deftly blended in unfolding the story of Abie and his Celtic bride.

"Janie," Brock Pemberton's ace Comedy hit, direct from 642 performances in New York, follows "Abie" June 27, Tuesday evening only and then on August 26, "Tomorrow, The World."

Tickets at Gadsby's Music Co., Salinas and Abinante Music Store, Monterey.

Red Cross News Notes

By HELEN A. FIELD

Have you passed the Red Cross Building on a Tuesday or Thursday morning recently? If you have, you have seen the flowers ready for the Carmel Chapter Gray Ladies to take to the patients at the Station Hospital at Fort Ord. Made into small bouquets by members of Carmel Red Cross they are put in water in little painted cans, many of which are prepared by the Junior Red Cross, and left at the bedsides of our hospitalized service men. The time-consuming bouquet arrangements have been made for the most part by a few faithful women, one of whom is at present making 100 or more bouquets each week.

Mrs. Wight, Chairman of Gray Ladies, sees a need for more flowers for our soldiers at the Station Hospital. If you can help provide them, please take them to Red Cross headquarters any Tuesday or Thursday before twelve o'clock. Arrange them in small bouquets or in larger bunches, and the Gray Ladies will see that they carry their cheerful colors and their fragrance to the men in the Fort Ord Hospital.

Don't forget to register at Carmel Red Cross headquarters for the new Nurse's Aide course which will begin on Monday, June 19th at 9:30 a. m.

Burgdorff Presents Gift To High School

The Carmel High School this week was the recipient of a very handsome painting of the Carmel coast by Ferdinand Burgdorff. It is a large canvas and is hung in the art room over the fireplace. The colors are a harmony of warm, deep browns of rocks and trees contrasted against a yellow sky and sea with accents of off white and blue green in the foreground.

Bogunovich of Oak Grove; six sisters and three brothers.

Knitters Needed For Helmets And Watchers Caps

Again from the Bundles United—British and American—Headquarters, New York, comes the call to all local chapters for volunteer knitters who will turn yarn into helmets and watchers' caps, the articles most in demand at present.

Those willing to lend a hand should apply at the Bundles, Dolores street, for issue of the yarn. It is thought that among the many new comers to Carmel in recent months there may be those who have not before heard the call for knitters, volunteers, whose handiwork will make for the comfort and convenience of our sailor boys now on duty on the seven seas.

Now that the invasion of continental Europe is a stern reality the efforts of those at home should be redoubled in every way possible, so the day be hastened when the job is done "over there," when our boys can then come marching home.

Pasmore Sisters Prove Musicianship At M.A.C. Concert

By FRANK L. McCLAIN

Mary and Suzanne Pasmore played for the Musical Art Club Friday night. They have many years of concert giving to their credit; they are well-schooled musicians, and they gave a good program. Mary Pasmore's opening group for the violin, was beautifully played, but it was in the Schumann Fairy Tale Pictures for Viola that she did her finest playing, and in this composition, too, the ensemble work was at its best.

Suzanne Pasmore's piano group were well received. The Respighi Nocturne, and Poulenc's Perpetual Motion, given as an encore, were outstanding.

A group of brilliant violin pieces completed the program. A large audience seemed to sense the fact that the artists were giving their best, and thoroughly enjoying themselves in the process.

LEIDIG OFFICE MOVES

We buy bonds.

Few Will Complain—

In compliance with an order from Regional Forester S. B. Snow the Los Padres National Forest area within Monterey County, with the exception of Pfeiffer Beach, Arroyo Seco Campground, and adjacent State and County roads, will be closed next Tuesday, July 13.

The inability of the Forestry Department to get enough men to ensure protection against fire is the reason for the closure. The few sportsmen, picnickers and nature lovers who still have the time and the gasoline to visit the national forest will be deprived of this pleasure but we believe they will accept the ruling cheerfully as just another small inconvenience that is a direct result of the war and slight, indeed, in comparison with the sacrifices made by our fighting men.

Sportsmen will benefit in the long run, for the game and fish, undisturbed for a season, will have an opportunity to increase in size and numbers, and all of us benefit by the protection to our forests the ruling provides.

Senior Speakers Talk On Freedom At Graduation

South, hope to see admission of all races into cultural circles, make discrimination in business illegal; make the entire populace realize the need for racial equality and bring about compulsory education for all races."

"The essence of Democracy at work is man at work to satisfy his own needs," said Betty Powell, discussing economic freedom. "Wherever democracy got started in the world, the economic condition of man began to improve. His capacity to satisfy wants was multiplied."

"The theory of free private enterprise has underlined the economic development of the United States with profit and competition as the chief factors controlling its operation. The theory that government should not interfere with the working of economic forces has never been observed in the U. S. At first our government intervened in order to encourage and protect home industry. Later on it became necessary to regulate business.

"Everybody knows that our system of production and distribution of goods is not perfect. We have unemployment, poverty, and depression while a large part of our productive capacity is idle, and a large part of our population lacks the necessities of life. But, we must ask ourselves the question, 'Has any other system resulted in higher living standards? Do we know of any system that is better? Is it fair to judge an economy by its weaknesses alone? Should we not rather look at its achievements?'"

George Moller sees in education and active interest of the citizens in their political obligations the strength of democracy.

"One of the grave dangers that we face is the possibility that we might lose our political freedom due to the fact that so many are ignorant of the obligations and duties that democracy puts upon them. America has a vast educational system that must safeguard the future of democracy through the free will of its people by building up an enthusiasm for democracy on a clear understanding of it. The love for democracy must be built up in the school."

"Many people believe that as the world changes we will need a new form of government. However, democracy in itself contains the ability to be continually renewed and reborn. This revitalization of democracy is caused by the interest of the educated masses who are relentlessly striving to perfect our form of government and improve their conditions."

Adults participating in the exercises were Rev. James E. Crowther, who gave the invocation; Rev. Carel J. Hulsewe, the benediction; Superintendent J. W. Getsinger who presented the class and Hugh W. Comstock, President of the Board of Trustees, who presented the diplomas. The Carmel High School chorus directed by Miss Dorothy Recht and the High School orchestra led by Jaffrey C. Harris provided the music.

The graduates: Russell Bohlke, Barbara Bolin, Rozelle Bolton, William Goss, Rose Gossler, John Graham, James Greenan, Clara Hitchcock, Robert Holm, Edward Hook, Jr., Warren Johnson, Norreen Kelsey, Carla Lepori, Louis Levinson, Jr., Howard Lockwood, Thomas May, Jr., Joy Melrose, Richard Miller, George Moller, William Monroe, Vivian Ohm, Roy Parsons, Arnold Pilling, Elizabeth Powell, June Quinn, Benjamin Stilwell, Richard Uzzell, Walter Warren, Jr., John Weigold, Delaware Wilson, Dorris Westcott, Norvell Yerkes.

Gene Ricketts Granted Permit To Build Dairy

agency already exists at the A. W. V. S. office.

Permits to hang signs were granted: Hearn Ltd., Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain, and Dean Witter Co. A transfer of business license was granted Ernest Bihlmaier to Guy Satterfield for the Smoke Shop. Requests to have trees trimmed or removed were made by Anna P. Narvais, Eleanor Montrose White, Ferdinand Haasis and Mary M. Powell. The Haasis and White requests were denied as the council had visited the trees, "interviewed them and found them to be alive," according to Mayor P. A. McCreery. The other two requests are subject to investigation by the council as a whole. Mrs. Eleanor Yates' request for "park parallel only" signs on the street in front of her houses was granted. Edna B. Bassler was granted permission to build a garage closer to the street than regulations allow because of the difficulty of the approach to her residence, but may not remove trees or shrubbery except under the supervision of Street Superintendent William Askew.

A letter from Charles L. Berkeley, secretary-treasurer for the Abalone League, offered the Forest Theatre lighting equipment to the city for $500. No action was taken.
